Would Censor Isaiah
Alcohol and the Widower
Happy Bonifis-Tammen
That Wretched 'Farm Bloc'

Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver, was good a friend as the women and children of a city ever had, took a good brain to the bench and continued using it after he got there. In New York yesterday he described the prevailing idiotic mania for censorship well. "Censorship will weaken moral character, prevent its development, by taking from youth the responsibility of choosing the right path, and from parents the directing of children."

Judge Lindsey comes in contact with hundreds of girls and hears their sad stories. He knows that the real troubles of youth are not reached by superficial censorship.

The duty of police and courts to punish indecency, against immorality and incentives to either is plain. And it should remain the duty of police and courts. Belligerent and amusing is some work of highly intellectual censors that read and change moving pictures. For instance, in Philadelphia, the censor saw a picture, "All for a Woman," dealing with a French revolution. Danton makes a fool of himself and a subtle reader, who neglects his duty to the State to reveal with pictures, the order of the censor reads, "eliminate the word 'wanton' from the subtitle." Isn't that deliciously "pure"? How fortunate for Timothy, Isaiah and the photo-graph James, brother of Jesus, that they died before the censors arrived. Timothy wrote:

"But younger widows refuse! for when they have waxed wanton against Christ, they desire to marry." James wrote:

"Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton."

Magnificent old Isaiah tells you that the Lord Himself used the word that pure Philadelphia censors forbid. Read the sixteenth verse, third chapter—and, by the way, read all Isaiah, if only to improve your English, before the censors get at it:

"Moreover, the Lord said: Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched-forth necks and wanton eyes, walking and mincing as they go, and making a tinkling with their feet."

What would the pure censors do to that beautiful verse?

The whole censorship nonsense will prove whether or not Americans are, mentally, verberates or jellyfish.

In Paris they feed chickens, and in Strasbourg goose, by stuffing food down their necks. Are we to take our morality in that fashion?

Chicago always tells the news dramatically. "Moonshine struck Christmas Eve," Philadelphia according to yesterday's diagnosis in the County Hospital! That record was never equaled before prohibition. And in addition to being drunk and poisoned, the fifty Chicago patients are suffering from cuts and other injuries of a character, sustained in frenzied fights.

Police Chief, Walworth, congratulated on his fine display of girls, said: "That's nothing, you ought to have seen me at the grave." King Alcohol can see of the old days, "They were nothing, you ought to have seen me at the grave."

H. H. Tammen, and his mental twin, Bonifis, run the Duver Post, and make it pay. Mr. Tammen and his wife have just given a hundred thousand dollars to build a new wing for contagious and orthopedic diseases on the Children's Hospital.

That's a good way to invest profits. Publishers will understand the Tammen-Bonifis property when they hear that for the last four years Tammen and Bonifis have had a paper owned at $25—and they have an option on a five-year extension. Happy Tammen-Bonifis.

Old style Republicans can be much disturbed by the "Farm Bloc," made up of Senators who seem to think that farmers, fruit growers, millions that develop the earth's wealth, really amount to something, and that when they go bankrupt and use their cars as fuel it is almost as important as when Newport owners of railroad stocks find their dividends reduced.

Old-fashioned Republicans can not stand such nonsense and talk about "readings" for the "Farm Bloc" of the Republican party. It would be a step justified, perhaps. But if farmers went out of the public party at the same time the Republican party might as well die.

The best thing for old-fashioned Republicans to do is to take their minds off corporations for a few minutes and see if they can do something for the farmers and other small sized people that gave the Republican party its seven million plurality a year ago.

COTE GRIL'S ATTORNEY ACCUSED OF PLOT

Defence Counsel Charges He Was Party to Blackmail Conspiracy

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, senior counsel for District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier in his trial before the Supreme Court on charges brought by Attorney General J. Watson Allen, relentlessly cross-examined Attorney William Shaw McCallum, State's witness in the Dorothy Cote case, today, in the effort to make McCallum admit that Pelletier, instead of being guilty of misconduct in that case, had frustrated a blackmail scheme.

Reed, his face alight with the eagerness of the chase, kept in three-hour pursuit of the witness.

McCallum tried to force with his question, but was several times forced to alter testimony and to take refuge in the convenient "I don't know."

McCallum was formerly counsel for Dorothy Cote, pretty girl of twenty-one, who and Gray W. Lawrence, her former sweetheart, a business man, married for an annulment.

It is the contention of the State that Pelletier and failed to Cote, only used to force her in relinquish the case under threat of criminal prosecution to Lawrence, Cote's prosecutor.

It is the contention of Pelletier, as shown by Senator Reed today, that what he did was to prevent the Cote wedding or someone acting for her from extracting the car and other property from Lawrence under threat of exposure of his relations with the girl.

McCallum, on one point, admitted that Miss Cote and Miss Sallie Adams of Warren street, Boston, had "discussed blackmail" in his office April 2, 1916. He said, however, that the Adams girl did not get up to get into the auto.

The witness was grilled by Reed regarding the premises, with which he appeared to a prominent lawyer of the Boston Bar Association after certain conversations regarding the case.

Added dramatic interest entered the case.

ATTOEY "LISTENED IN" ON PELLETIER

Former Assistant United States District Attorney William H. Garland, law partner of Attorney William Shaw McCallum, testified at the Pelletier trial today that he had "listened in" and taken shorthand notes on a telephone conversation between his partner and Pelletier concerning the Dorothy Cote case in 1918.

case when it developed that Lawrence had, since the case had its inception, divorced his wife and married the girl to the now-famous Cote.

Senator Reed today asked McCallum whether he had taken shorthand notes for the girl, which a view of making Lawrence

GRILS HELD IN BACK BAY BREAKS

Ball Fixed at $6,000 Each for Six Men and Girls Caught in Raid

Three girls and three young men arrested at an apartment at No. 131 Hemenway street, Back Bay, were today sent to Roxbury court for arraignment on charges of breaking and entering, following the taking of their photographs and fingerprints at police headquarters.

John Ahern held the six in $10,000 bail each for examination on January 5, after Captain Goode and Police Detective of Station 16 told the court that the lot recovered was worth at least $3,000 and that they believed most of the expensive clothing and jewelry were by the girls had been stolen.

Hairpins found in some of the lot, the police said, indicated that the girls had been active participants in the break.

James Stitt of the Brookline Police, Sergeant Nelson of Cambridge and other suburban police officials were in court to try to identify the prisoners. The prisoners were charged with one count of breaking and entering and larceny and one count of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny. Other charges are expected to be brought.

The police will endeavor to link them with a series of at least six breaks in the Back Bay in which thousands of dollars' worth of valuables were recovered.

CHAIN OF BREAKS.

Several persons were at headquarters today to attempt to identify the four girls and other valuables seized in the police raid on the apartment where the men and girls were arrested.

Breaks with which the police are trying to connect them, were at the apartment of Dr. Earl Buckman, No. 41 Hemenway street; Miss Johnson, No. 20 Huntington avenue; Miss Funn, No. 25 Huntington street; and Miss Chase, No. 131 Hemenway street, and No. 115 Huntington street.

The police raid was used by the state to ring door bells and find out if apartments were occupied, and was at home the girls' mother.

Schooner Captured by Coast Guard Cutter Said to Be Owned in Boston

The rum-running schooner Golden West, towed into Boston today by the coast guard cutter Acushnet, is believed to have disposed of 7,000 gallons of alcoholic liquors at one or more ports in the United States before she was seized in Massachusetts Bay late yesterday by the Acushnet with 8,000 gallons still on board.

she is said to be owned by Boston men.

The custom officers at Boston have information that she is St. Pierre, a schooner, some weeks ago with 15,000 gallons of whiskey, rum and rum spirits.

Captain Dennis Ames and the six members of his crew were placed under arrest by Ensign George H. Mann when he boarded the schooner in the harbor, and will be arraigned before a United States commissioner.

Meanwhile, the vessel has been tied up to the Acushnet's stern. The information, the Golden West, which was formerly a Canadian fishing schooner, and is being taken to the harbor, and will be arraigned before a United States commissioner.

According to Customs today's information, the Golden West, which was formerly a Canadian fishing schooner, and is being taken to the harbor, and will be arraigned before a United States commissioner.

Now's the Time to Buy Used Cars

Now that people are selecting cars from the new models, other owners are being caught by the cars that have been replaced.

Many of these machines look as though they were from the factory. Many of them have been replaced, and are in good order. The difference between the new and the old is in the price and the original price represents a considerable saving to the buyer. There may also be a used car.

Look in an Automobile Exchange. In the want ad section of the American for four days their full service. All other offers are listed.

If some special make and model you seek to find, write a want ad for your own. If you are looking for it, and the ad is ready here with or without.

REEDS' COUSINS' FOR COLE GIRL OF BEING PETER BOCKEY BLACKMAIL

"some reason," he explained. Attorney McCallum denied that it was. McCallum was asked concerning a letter he sent for the then Miss Victor to the automobile company having the deposed machine in custody, and concerning a copy of that letter, containing her claims, which he had sent to Guy Lawrence.

Senator Reed wanted to know if the letter to Lawrence hadn't been sent with the idea that it would frighten a married man with a wife and two children, and threatened with trouble by the sweetheart who loved him he had quarreled.

"Did I intend to give Lawrence the idea the storm was about to break?" Senator Reed asked. "I had no ulterior motive," McCallum answered.

"Did you think it improper to let a man go to see a woman who was the sweetheart of Lawrence, married, and father of two children?" Reed continued.

CHARGES BLACKMAILED.

Reed to this point had charged blackmailed McCallum in a statement to the court.

He declared he purposed to stop the contents of a letter from being published. He said he had written to the publisher of the Boston Herald to stop it, and that McCallum was charged with the offense of charging him against the district attorney.

In the course of the grilling McCallum admitted he was willing to go into court to collect the hire of a woman of whom he had been charged.

Reed further stated that the charge against Lawrence and Miss Cole was over a year ago.

Attorney McCallum was taken for examination by Attorney Reed, who asked:

Q—Did you have the permission of the client to go before the Boston Bar Association and to come here and expose the confidential relations between you and her?

Q—How long have you known Peter Bockey?

A—Not long. We used to be in the same office.

Q—Where you careful in your relations with him?

A—No. I have known him, but by night, but I did not know his brother, Mr. Coddie.

Q—How long have you known Miss Cole?

A—Not long. I have known her, but by night, but I did not know his brother, Mr. Coddie.

Q—When Miss Cole came to your office the first time?

A—Not long. I have known her, but by night, but I did not know his brother, Mr. Coddie.

Q—Did she authorize you at that time to bring suit against Lawrence?

A—No.

WAVE TELETYPE.

Q—Did she tell you of any trouble she had with Lawrence?

A—No.

Q—What did she come to you for?

A—If I may be allowed to release for my client I will tell you. I will waive the privilege.

Senator Reed—Oh, you don't have to waive any privilege. You have waived concerning those already.

Q—You received from your client the photograph of Lawrence and the marked Exhibit 23, didn't you?

A—Yes.

Q—And this is a transcript of your testimony before the Bar Association?

A—Yes.

Q—Did she have the original of this letter and obtained it from Miss Cole?

A—Yes.

Q—This copy is in court after passing through your hands from your client?

A—Yes.

Q—When Miss Cole came to you you feared of trouble between her and Lawrence, didn't you?—Blithe on the first or second visit.

CLAIMED AUTO.

Q—Did you learn anything about the trouble over an automobile at the first visit?

A—Yes, that was why I went.

Q—Did you bring a proceeding at that time?

A—No.

Q—Was she uncertain what to do?

A—Yes.

Q—You knew at that time that Miss Cole and Lawrence were not married?

A—Yes.

Q—You knew she was claiming as if she had an automobile and that Lawrence claimed it, also?

A—Yes.

Q—You knew that she was a ring bearer, among which was a ring which had belonged to Lawrence's mother?

A—No, I don't recall that. If she was mentioned at the first visit, I don't know.

Q—Did you learn that she and Lawrence had a quarrel? Had they had it before the first time she came to you?

A—No.

Q—Was she at first willing to make any statement to Lawrence?

A—No.

Q—As a matter of fact, Mr. McCallum, early in your conversation with this lady, was she not reluctant to bring suit?

A—Yes.

Q—There was a man in the office with you, was there not?

A—Yes.

Q—Was he Mr. Coddie's attorney?

A—No.

Q—Did Miss Cole talk in his presence?

A—Yes, once or twice.

Q—Did you say in direct testimony that you told Garland all about it?

A—No.

MEXICAN TRADE HED BY U. S. DELAY

Lack of Recognition Seriously Affects Industry, Says Foreign Secretary Panl

By OTHERMAN STEVENS.
Copyright, 1921, by Editorial Service.
Mexico City, Dec. 28.—Secretary for Foreign Affairs Alberto J. Pani is a man of continued high position in Mexican governmental affairs. He has charge of Mexico's relations with the rest of the world. His attention on the question of recognition by the United States therefore has a deep significance and value in the present situation.

It is a remarkable thing for a minister to express for publication his opinion about such a delicate question. That Secretary Pani does this is due to his intense desire to give the American people, whom he knows by many visits to our country, a better understanding of Mexico's position.

In reply to questions, this is Secretary Pani's statement:
A SERIOUS HANDICAP
"The fact that recognition is pending on a settlement is a serious handicap on business relations between the two countries. The Mexican government has official recognition which shows that a very great number of large enterprises in the United States are waiting until the decision on recognition is known.

"It can further say that a very great sum of money in the aggregate, which is intended to be invested in this country, is being held up on the same account.

"That these transactions are investments would be of incalculable benefit to both countries is a certainty. We feel that these funds are also known to your government, and that doubtless they are being taken into consideration by your State Department in the contemplation given by it to the investment question."

When the Secretary was asked as to the attitude of his government toward recognition, he replied that the policy of the President, he recalled a word, consisting, President Wilson's address to Congress on that subject.

ATTITUDE OF MEXICO
"My understanding is that these words reflect the attitude of our government," he said. And then he read:

"Our government is as much concerned as the United States government about the protection of American interests in Mexico, considering such protection one of its fundamental duties toward that great country.
"Such policy on account of the national policy created by her government in the vicinity but also on account of the moral and high standards of our country toward the democratic institutions and the high standards of our country."

"Both governments are therefore in accord in this purpose, and in order to operate more effectively in the statement of that purpose, it is necessary to cooperate in such a form that the Mexican government and enable it to perform its duties in the vicinity at the same time a reason for a better future understanding between the two countries, the Mexican government has preferred to substitute for the easy method of recognition which might be humiliating, the national dignity of its political and administrative plan.

MUST RETAIN PRINCIPLE
"And it seems to follow the same path until the field is considered sufficiently free from obstacles to reach a settlement on the matter of recognition along lines which will not detract from Mexican national dignity and sovereignty and which will enable the Mexican government to enter into close and an equal relationship with the United States government for the better cordiality of the renewed diplomatic relations."

It is recognized here that a strong constituent value in the United States of financial and oil interests which for some reason purpose to prevent recognition. Secretary Pani said that the United States government is not to be a moment's thought by saying:

"The Mexican government does not assume for a minute that any ulterior influence has been placed on your government. There may be such ulterior influence which aims to impose what we regard as a matter of justice and of international equity."

BASED ON GOOD FAITH
"But the matter which the Wall Street Journal has published and its policies and other reports and press matter which might be regarded as propaganda against recognition, we do not assume can have any influence on any department of your government concerned with this question."

"Mexico's position on this point is clear. The matter of recognition the United States is based on good faith and open mind. It would be very hard—it would be impossible for us to believe that anything not on these lines of good faith and open methods could have any influence on the United States."

"The Mexican government will proceed to the United States and make any reports of publications influenced by these hostile intentions to recognition, be they oil or financial interests."

MAN HONORED IN 75TH YEAR AS CHURCH SINGER
Marion, N. H., Dec. 28.—For seventy-five years, C. F. Moore, of this town, has been singing in the congregational church of this town.
At the reception given to him he was presented with a letter from the church which was read by the pastor, showing the interior of the church which has been the scene of worship for many years. He began to sing when thirteen years old.

Jordan Marsh Company

Where You Will Find Value Not Only in Price but in QUALITY

JANUARY MARK-DOWN SALE

A Quick, Positive Clearance of Dependable Merchandise

The Reason—Keeping stock fresh at all times requires prompt markdowns at certain periods—and this is one of the occasions. In addition, much choice surplus merchandise is secured from manufacturers who are getting ready for Spring.

There are also many lots of new goods at mark-down prices

The Result—An assemblage of values that represents a generous saving in every case.

No former values are quoted, but every markdown is decisive—every price a striking example of the buying and selling power of this immense organization. Proverbial Jordan Marsh Company qualities prevail throughout.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Boston Folk Greet Harvard Musicians in Washington

BY BETTY ALDEN.

QUITE A Bostonian atmosphere surrounded the Harvard University Orchestra when that organization recently made its first appearance in Washington at the National Theatre.

Mr. Calvin Coolidge not only headed the list of patronesses, but entertained a box party, who included her two young sons, who are home from school visiting their parents over the holidays. The Second Lady of the Land, by the way, has not only figured extensively as a patroness for numerous affairs taking place at the capital, but has been enrolled in that capacity for a number of events taking place in Boston. But she has not merely lent her name to affairs in this city; many remember her at the opening night of the large G. O. P. bazaar held last month at the Copley Plaza. Just preceding this occasion Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer of Fairfield street gave a dinner in honor of Mrs.

Miss Alice Bremer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore G. Bremer of Brookline, was snapped while she was coolidge, and those of the first set who were bidden to Mrs. Thayer's dinner still find time and occasion to talk over the event.

Other prominent patrons for the concert given by the Crimino's orchestra included Mrs. Frederick Gillett and Mrs. Grafton Minot, formerly of this city, where they have a host of friends and relatives. Mrs. Gillett, prior to her marriage to the Speaker of the House, was the wife of the late Rockwood Hoar, who for many years was the representative in Congress from Massachusetts. Her two daughters, Miss Louisa Hoar and Mrs. Reginald Foster (Frances Hoar), have figured prominently in the social activities of the Huk. Mrs. Minot, the granddaughter of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, has numbered among the most prominent businesswomen in Washington. She has a host of friends along the North Shore, where she spends the summers at her Prude's Crossing estate, "The Alhambra."

Mme. Helen Stanley, soprano, was the soloist at the Harvard Orchestra concert at which the ambitious program included Schubert's

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, 21, of "Boulder House," Newton Centre, are expected in New York at the Hotel Plaza, where Shaw recently entertained at dinner.

Mrs. Winthrop Murray Crane gave a ball on Tuesday night in her home at Dalton street. Guests: Miss Barbara Crane, who has her cousin, Miss Mary Johnson, of Dalton; Mrs. George A. Crane whose home in Dalton is known as "Sugar Hill"; a number of the culture club in Boston; and a host of well connected.

Miss Helenie Meyer of Boston had as guests over Christmas at "Overlie," her Lenox estate, Mr. and Mrs. John McLean and Samuel Frothingham, Mrs. Meyer is leaving today with Miss Kate Cary for Santa Barbara, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince, Jr. of Boston and New York, were in the luncheon party with Mrs. Eleanor L. T. Lawrence recently gave at the Plaza in New York. Also in the party were Mrs. and Mr. K. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Desvieux Milburn and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lawrence.

Naturally the smart set of Boston, as well as that of New York and Pittsburgh, is interested in the news that Horatio Nelson Slater has just been married in Veunelles, France, to Martha Byers Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennstedt Lyon of Pittsburgh.

At the ceremony, which took place in the house of Mme. Madras-death, which was caused by the sudden death of the driver, and both Mr. and Mrs. Young, whose home is in New York, received serious injuries.

the Summer White of Washington served as best man. Mr. Walker, who is attracted to the diplomatic corps in Washington, is a brother-in-law of the groom, having married Esther Slater, Miss Nancy Walker's sister. The wedding was held in the morning and was traditional.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of white satin and lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white gerberas and lilacs of the valley. The house was beautifully decorated with orchids, and

The young couple left immediately for Marseilles, en route to Egypt, India and Japan on their honeymoon. They will arrive in New York early in the Spring, and make GROUND and Lofty Sculpting! A sculptor's life isn't all beautiful models and perfumed studios, as you can observe. Here is Violet Terwilliger working on the memorial figure of Friendship, to be presented by U. S. to Brazil next September. It is 85 feet high. Designed by Charles Knuck, at right. Statue is next in size to Statue of Liberty. (Int.)

ONE Drop Means Death! Italian cavalrymen are the most daring in the world. Behold this dashing rider descending the side of steep cliff. Note how the horse has braced a hind leg and is feeling his way with his out hoofs. (G.)

SHE Likes Something Around Her! The new bathing shawl has won popularity on the coast and is now pleasing Florida dolphins. Beth Darrington of Los Angeles likes hers. (Underwood.)

A SMOKING GOOD IDEA! "Adolphus" is the figure in the center. Its object in life is to "break in" new pipes. The tobacco is consumed by the mechanical smoker to the last flake without "burning" the pipe. The invention of a London tobaccoist. Thousands of pipes have been sold through the suggestiveness of the device. (K.)

ROLLING HER OWN! This little girl, Anna Johansen, of San Francisco, has broken all records for looping the loop—with an automobile tire. This photo was snapped just before she turned over 200 times and she wasn't dizzy, either. However, the office boy says she was dizzy to try a stunt like that. (Int.)

"FIRST AID" AT FIRST HAND! So many accidents occurred at a certain cross section in Berlin that the authorities established a "first aid depot," and to make certain that it would really be first aid they erected it right on the sidewalk. It is well stocked with everything necessary to alleviate pain and help the injured in an emergency. (K.)

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

OBSERVING THE RULES MOST NEGLECTED PART OF GOLF GAME

By JOCK HUTCHINSON

During the past few weeks, I have written a great deal on the fine points of the game. I have mentioned yet one of the most important things in connection with the golf and myself. I am taking this opportunity to give a little advice on the rules of the game.

For some reason, the rules of golf are very much neglected. I don't think there is any one who knows them all, but I think it is a pity that a quick decision when called upon.

One player can properly frame the game without knowing the rules and having enough about them to play in competition. There is nothing wrong in this, but it is a pity that a player who is not familiar with the rules is often at a disadvantage. It is a pity that a player who is not familiar with the rules is often at a disadvantage.

No player can properly frame the game without knowing the rules and having enough about them to play in competition. There is nothing wrong in this, but it is a pity that a player who is not familiar with the rules is often at a disadvantage.

By TAD MCGILL PLAYS ITS FIRST GAME HERE TONIGHT AGAINST TECH

McGill University hockey team will play the first of a series of three games at the Arena tonight. The Canadians will have the Technology team for their opponents. McGill has one of the best balanced teams in its history. Although the Canadians are favorite they will be opposed by a team that knows a lot of hockey in the N. T. hockey coached by Ed Powers of Toronto.

McGill will have men who have been through the rigors of three hard seasons against McGill. The boys in Tech have been hard on the Huggins in their game to date. Taylor, Hayden, Duver, and others.

McGill has had the best of coaching in the past few years. In addition to Frank Davidson, the Tech is extremely anxious to make itself a team that is superior to Boston College, and are one of the great prospects the Mounties to register a better total of real college hockey this season.

FINANCE

AND BUSINESS

By L. L. FORBES

President Harding is quite right in refusing to call an international conference on finance and economics. The needs of Europe are the affairs of the United States.

Of course, we are tremendously interested and affected by what happens in Europe, and it is not our advantage to contribute reasonably and sympathetically to hastening the restoration of conditions conducive to business recovery there, since such recovery is essential to the restoration of a full-fledged prosperity in the United States.

It is up to some European government, particularly the British, to take the lead in summoning any international conference of financial, industrial and financial leaders. The probability is that a decision to call an economic conference will be reached at the European conference to be held at Cannes on January 1.

Should Britain or France now attempt to force an international conference, it would be well for America to represent either official or unofficially, or to send representatives of the administration or unofficially by either of the two proposed conferences.

Were President Harding to inaugurate for the economic conference, it would be well for America to represent either official or unofficially, or to send representatives of the administration or unofficially by either of the two proposed conferences.

Prophecy is dangerous. Were it to risk a prediction, it would be that Lloyd George will lead the call in calling the multi-discussed economic conference, and that he will submit a British financial program to the conference in the way of a high naval program.

It is not more than a possibility that Lloyd George will announce terms on which Great Britain is prepared to make payment of claims owed her by certain of the neutral nations on the continent of Europe.

Should Britain adopt such a policy, on a large scale, the effect upon European conditions would be materially beneficial, and it measures were taken to make payment of claims owed her by certain of the neutral nations on the continent of Europe.

That there will be complete cancellation of debts owed Britain by the stronger European nations is not to be expected for a moment. It is not to be expected for a moment. It is not to be expected for a moment.

Should the course here outlined be adopted by Britain, it is interesting to note what effect, if any, it would have on public sentiment in this country regarding the cancellation by us in the case of the weaker countries included in Britain's slate-clearing.

One thing which can be expected as absolutely certain, however, is that there will be no cancellation of debts by countries in a position to pay Britain in full, or at least to tell France that she need not pay a cent. Not to it within the grasp of practicality.

The United States will release Britain or France from the obligation to pay the payment of their debts, or to pay the payment of their debts, or to pay the payment of their debts.
